

SUPPLEMENTAL SOURCES TO FIND LINKS FOR RESOURCES AS WELL AS IMAGES OF PLACES, SUBJECTS AND EVENTS, ETC.

www.google.com

(Don't forget to be VERY creative in your searches as you can search to find other links and sources for example):

historic newspapers (add a state name)

"Secretary of State" (add each state) and search for many digitized records

Archives (add each state)

Digital collection (s) (add each state) historic home (s) (enter county name in quotes) (add state name)

historic house (s) (enter county name in quotes) (add state name)

Local histories and atlases – county name, state and atlas, etc.

<http://www.postal-history.com/showpage.html>

<http://www.postal-history.com/showpage.html>

www.ebay.com

<https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Deltiology>

SUPPLEMENTAL SOURCES TO FIND LINKS FOR RESOURCES AS WELL AS IMAGES OF PLACES, SUBJECTS AND EVENTS, ETC.

http://www.chicagopostcardmuseum.org/glossary_of_postcard_terms.html sites to find what antique postcard collecting is all about as well as antique postcards for sale on-line or finding postcard shows to attend in your area where millions of postcards are sold - EVERYTHING has been depicted on antique postcards, and like photos, people saved them ! There are printed as well as real photo postcards. Most of the dealers sort their postcards by places called VIEWS. You can ask each postcard dealer how they organize their postcards. There were postcard collectors, even at the turn of the century, and those people would advertise they collect postcards in newspapers and magazines from a place or subject, and wanting to exchange postcards with others. It was a national pastime to gather in parlors and show postcards on postcard viewers, a way to travel from your own living room and share that experience with others. Many postcard dealers, and those on eBay, also sell engravings and photographs of historic sites, places and events, etc. too.

www.landmarkhunter/

Landmark hunter is a database of historic and notable, significant landmarks and buildings (likely listed in National Register or State Historical Registers.

<https://www.ncdcr.gov/things-to-do/historic-sites>

Historic sites in North Carolina (google for other states Department of Archives/historic sites, etc.)

<https://www.courthousedirect.com/PropertySearch/>

Many counties of states have or are beginning to digitize many of their records for on-line viewing and printing, etc. (select state at bottom of screen and then select county and see what is searchable. NOTE: Be patient and persistent as it takes a while for each county to load)

Example: <https://www.courthousedirect.com/PropertySearch/Texas/Williamson> (Williamson County, Texas)

REMEMBER – BE PATIENT AND PERSISTENT AND YOUR EFFORTS WILL BE REWARDED !!

List compiled by Randy Pace – 10/6/2021